CARING ACROSS AMERICA
TAKE THIS HOME AND MAKE A POINT TO ASK YOUR FAMILY THESE TWO SIMPLE BUT PROFOUND QUESTIONS

1

What is our family’s plan for meeting our future caregiving needs?

What will we need in five, ten, or twenty years? Will we need to hire someone to help? Can we afford the care we want?

2

What joys could getting older and caring for one another bring?

How could caregiving bring our family, friends, and/or community closer together?

HOW’D IT GO?

The more we talk about this, the easier it gets. Share your story at caringacrossamerica.com for a chance to be featured in the paperback version of The Age of Dignity.
With 10,000 people turning 65 every day, how can we provide the care America will need in the near future, and ensure we are all able to live full and dignified lives as we age? This is the question MacArthur “Genius” Fellow Ai-jen Poo asks in her new book, The Age of Dignity. Learn more and join the movement to transform the way we care:
